Mr. Jones Will Speak in Richmond May 5-Financial Chart Is Made.

In all probability the legality of primary elections already held, and others which have been called, will be questioned at the coming meeting of as prevision is not in the primary plan as originally adopted, but it is stated that it was added by resolution of the State convention, probably in 1908. At all events, such is the information of C. B. Garnett, keneral manager of the Virkinia Democratic League. Mr.

of the State committee, but said he understood it would be raised by some individual, perhaps by a member of the committee.

In a good many cases primaries have been called for the nomination of candidates for both houses of the General Assembly, and campaigns are now in progress. These would be affected equally with those counties which have already acted.

Probable.

Probable Arguments.

Presumably the point in the matter is that early primaries might be held so as to anticipate the real choice of the people. Again, it may be argued that in contests brought off some months in advance the men chosen for office might not reflect the sentiment of the public on the general questions involved, and sentiment on these matters might not have crystallized at the time of the primary. ters might not have cr the time of the pr'mary.

while the committee has not per-fected such a rule, it is claimed that it is none the less binding on local authorities.

State Gets Much Money.

The sum of $43,012.92 is now ready from national funds, to be drawn on for this purpose. This was accomplished through the efforts of General Sale, who secured a reversal of a former ruling, which would have, prevented the State from sharing in this fund, it had been previously decided that the money could not be used to improve property not belonging to the United States, but this has now been waived, and Virginia gets the money without condition.

With the original bill in the Legislatife, appropriating $15,000 for rifle range purposes, with the ground costing $20,000 as a gift to the State, with the Norfolk-Southern spending $25,000 to extend its track, and with the government giving $43,000, a total of $103,1000 has been secured through General Sale's efforts. Only $15,000 of this came from the treasury of Virginia, and this has not yet been expended.

HEAR STATION CASE

People of Clayville Want Southern to Reopen Depot.

The State Corporation Commission yesterday set Thursday, May 4, at 11 o'clock, as the time for a formal hearing on the application of certain citizens of Clayville, Powhatan county, to have the recently abandoned Southern Railway station there reopened. A hearing was recently gone into, at which a number of winesses gave testimony, and as a result of which the commission informally permitted the closing of the station.

Not satisfied with this, a petition has been filed by W. G. Staplekamp, the Clayville Manufacturing Company, Chesley Dorset and others, at whose relation the Commonwealth issues its rule against the Southern, and another hearing will be had.

Battalion Members Not Unit on Form of Annual Event.

No decision has yet been reached by the Richmond Blues as to the nature of the annual celebration of the formation of the battalion, on May 10. Some of the men favor an all-day outing; others a dance, and still others a stag supper. The members of Company C were asked to vote on the question, sending postal card expressions of onlinion to Sergeant John B. Lightfoot, Jr.

This matter will be in the hands of Captain David M. Leary, Jr., of B Company, who will be in command of the battalion as senior captain for the next three weeks, during the absence in Texas of Major F. W. Bowles.

Coal Not Satisfactory.

The Committee on Improvement of the James River met last night and approved current bills. City Engineer Bolling notified the committee that notice had been served on the City Coal Company, that unless both the quality and manner of delivery of coal for the city tag was improved, the contract would be canceled. The action was approved, and the Engineer instructed to cancel the contract unless there is immediate improvement.
